With 75 points up for grabs this weekend, anything is possible, especially with 30 cars on track ready to do battle on a technical track like the one named to the rider from Coriano.

If in the overall standing there are many contenders for the top positions, in the rookies' one it is an open battle. Maya Weug (Iron Lynx) has jumped on the lead thanks to her great continuity during the first three races, but the young Dutch driver of the Ferrari Driver Academy needs to do her best, because she is threatened by 8 good pursuers enclosed in 18 points. Only one point of difference with the German Jonas Ried (BWT Muecke Motorsport) and 6 of advantage with the Polish of AS Motorsport Kacper Sztuka. However, in the fight, there are also Leonardo Bizzotto (BVM Racing), Conrad Laursen (Prema Powerteam), Lorenzo Patrese (AKM Motorsport), Marcus Amand (R-ACE GP), Francesco Braschi (Jenzer Motorsport) and Nikita Bedrin (Van Amersfoort Racing).

Several teams will take advantage of the 4 hours of free track to put on track drivers that will be able to further lengthen the starting grid during the season. Fundamental the contribution of the Scuola Federale ACI Sport, directed by Raffaele Giammaria with the supervision of Emanuele Pirro and the instructors Gabriele Lancieri and Niki Cadei. During the weekend there will be several moments between drivers and instructors, like the commentary of qualifying and races as well as some theoretical pills on the technique of the vehicles and on the regulations.
